Bench IT CablingProduct Code :
ELTC0063Description :

Bench IT Cabling

Technical Specification :

This experimental training device can make students understand and practice the components, function, composition and principle of integrated wiring and computer network system. It can carry on the transfer demonstration of data network, voice network and cable television network of integrated wiring, carry on installation, linking, operation and use of kinds of equipments on data network, such as ADSL, fiber optical transceiver, optical fiber box, network switch, cable wire wrapper distribution frame and information module, carry on installation, linking, operation and use of kinds of equipments on voice network, such as stored program control exchange, distribution frame, module and telephone set, carry on installation, linking, operation and use of kinds of equipments on cable TV network, such as signal source, cable TV amplifier, cable TV distributor and television, carry on design and linking of kinds of circuits, identification and installation of the structure of the component, linking every part through circuit diagram, designing and installing a simple application system and so on through the computer network, voice network and cable television network, it can realize the exchange with external information, carry on kinds of comprehensive trainings about networking with other system experimental training devices of wiring series.
