Electric Bunsen Burner combines the advantages of a regular gas burner with the clean, easy operation of the Electromantles. Radiation from the heater is directed upwards to a focal point. The Electric Bunsen is ideal for heating test tubes, crucibles, small flasks, and beakers, regardless of their shape. It is corrosion-resistant and includes a cool-to-touch base. Key features include a conical-shaped heating element that directs radiant heat to the top cavity, and a top cowl that deflects heat away from user hands. Air circulation from the vented housing keeps the base cool enough to hold during operation. Electric burner is CE marked.
